Personal website
A minimalistic personal presentation. Frontend is plain HTML/CSS/JS stack implemented together with some open-source js libraries. On the backend there are unique visitor counter implemented with Golang and MongoDB and various functions for calling Youtube API about my personal Youtube songs & playlists.

AWS lambda function for image processing
A lightweight serverless function written in Golang. It was used by one freelance client who was taking images from one S3 bucket, transform them in various ways and upload them into another bucket.
